Testimony of Under Secretary of State Stuart Eizenstat
to the House Banking Committee, June 4, 1998, [<http://financialservices.house.gov/banking/6498eiz.htm>]..... 3fn1

1 Plaintiffs' disagree with Vatican Bank's (IOR) assessment that the facts of the complaint
2 are implausible and should be dismissed pursuant to the Sherman antitrust conspiracy case Bell
3 Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly. Plaintiffs contend that Twombly has no particular application in 4 Alperin but agree with Twombly's general proposition that a plausible complaint should lead
5 to discovery even if there are doubts by the Court as to the ultimate outcome of the case. Nor 6 does IOR specifically address the declaratory relief sought by plaintiffs for violations of 7 international law (4AC ¶¶ 198-201) which involves a different analysis than property issues.

8 The Twombly court found an antitrust conspiracy complaint must be plausible with 9 regards to an allegation of parallel conduct which lacks facts of any agreement between parties.
10 Twombly *4-5. The plausibility test defined in Twombly is:

11 “Asking for plausible grounds to infer an agreement does not impose a 12 probability requirement at the pleading stage; it simply calls for enough fact to 13 raise a reasonable expectation that discovery will reveal evidence of illegal 14 agreement. And, of course, a well pleaded complaint may proceed even if it strikes a savvy judge that actual proof of those facts is improbable, and that a recovery is very remote and unlikely.” Twombly at *4.

15 Thus IOR argues the facts contained in the entire 201 paragraph Alperin Fourth Amended
16 Complaint (4AC) are so implausible ~ not just improbable ~ that there is no expectation
17 discovery would reveal any evidence to support the allegations. That interpretation is nonsense.

18 IOR selectively dissects the facts in Alperin by attacking a small sample piecemeal and 19 labeling them “speculative.” Applying Twombly requires a more holistic approach and not just 20 a myopic reading of a few paragraphs mislabeled “key” and taken out of context. In Twombly, 21 the Supreme Court praised the trial court for going beyond the truncated pleadings and using 22 Fed.R.of Evid. 201 to get a better understanding of the flawed complaint. Twombly at *10.

23 IOR focuses only on the 4AC's ¶¶ 41, 42, 154 by tarring them as “formulaic” and 24 therefore bereft of plausibility under Twombly. The 4AC's ¶¶ 41, 42, 154, deal with origins of 25 the Ustasha Treasury and its retention and conversion by defendants. IOR ignores the greater 26 bulk of pertinent facts in the 4AC, e.g. ¶¶ 19, 22, 43, 88-90, 103-4, 116-7, 122-3 (origins of 27 Ustasha Treasury), 4AC¶¶ 35, 37, 39, 146-8, 150 n4, 155, 157, 158, 160, 163, 165, 166
28 (retention and outflow of laundered funds from IOR), and ¶¶ 92, 142, 159 (conversion by IOR).

1 Twombly cannot change Fed.R.Civ.Proc. Rule 8(a)(2) requiring only a short and plain 2 statement of the claim ~ only Congress can do that. In Twombly certiorari was granted to 3 determine the “. . . [P]roper standard for pleading an antitrust conspiracy through allegations 4 of parallel conduct.” Twombly at *3 citing Twombly 126 S. Ct. 2965 (2006). The net effect of 5 Twombly was the overruling of a statement in Conley v. Gibson, 355 U.S. 41 (1957), that a 6 complaint should not be dismissed for failure to state a claim unless it appeared beyond doubt
7 that a plaintiff could prove no set of facts that would entitle him to relief. Plaintiffs, however,
8 have not relied in their briefs on that aspect of Conley.

9 Instead, plaintiffs cited to Leatherman v. Tarrant County Narcotics Intelligence &
10 Coordination Unit, 507 U.S. 163, 168 (1993) that:

11 “The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure do not require a claimant to set out in 12 detail the facts upon which he bases his claim but require only a short and plain 13 statement of the claim that will give the defendant fair notice of what the 14 plaintiff’s claim is and the grounds upon which it rests.”

15 An approach specifically endorsed by Twombly at *11.

16 IOR improperly disputes facts in the 4AC. First, IOR posits there is no connection
17 between the plaintiffs and the Ustasha Treasury. Plaintiffs, correctly termed “Holocaust 18 Survivors” by the 9th Circuit, have plead in the 4AC’s ¶¶19, 22, 43, 88-90, 103-4, 116-7, 122-3, 19 that the origin of the Ustasha Treasury was property looted from victims of the Ustasha and that 20 declaratory relief and an accounting is required to determine the scope, amount, disbursements,
21 and remainder of the Ustasha Treasury that was laundered by IOR and OFM. The US State
22 Department finding on the Ustasha Treasury supports plaintiffs’ analysis in the previously cited
23 and submitted State Department Report on the Ustasha Treasury authored by Under Secretary
24 Eizenstat and clarified in his Congressional testimony:

25 “The Ustasha regime in Nazi Germany’s wartime puppet state of Croatia
26 systematically and mercilessly robbed, murdered, or deported its Serbian, 27 Sinti-Romany, and Jewish populations. Gold and other valuables of the victims
28 became a part of the Ustasha treasury, which may have been as much as $80
29 million.<sup>1</sup>”

1 <sup>1</sup>Testimony of Under Secretary of State Stuart Eizenstat to the House Banking Committee, June 4, 1998
2 [<http://financialservices.house.gov/banking/6498eiz.htm>].

1 Secondly, IOR takes issue with the deposit or, as it terms “retention,” of the Ustasha
2 Treasury by IOR. IOR dismisses the 10 truck convoy delivering a portion of the Treasury to San 3 Girolamo for deposit at the IOR (4AC ¶154) by relegating it to a footnote while parsing the 4 remainder of the 4AC ¶154 to suit its argument. The 4AC’s ¶154, as understood by plaintiffs 5 in the context of the entire complaint, plainly means a 10 truck convoy holding a portion of the 6 Ustasha Treasury was delivered by Colonel Babic to OFM agents at San Girolamo in 1946 (4AC 7 ¶¶85, 143-145) and then deposited by OFM at the Vatican Bank. Any other interpretation is 8 merely playing with words:

9 “Pleadings are intended to serve as a means of arriving at fair and just 10 settlements of controversies between litigants. They should not raise barriers 11 which prevent the achievement of that end.” Maty v. Grasselli Chemical Co., 12 303 U.S. 197, 200 (1938).

13 While IOR has subjectively declared the 4AC’s ¶154 “key” it must still be read in 14 conjunction with ¶¶17, 85, 143-145, which connect defendants IOR and OFM. To do otherwise 15 would permit a defendant to simply ignore any facts in the complaint not to its liking while 16 arguing the remainder are insufficient. The details provided meet the Twombly standard of 17 plausibility ~ there is no doubt left as to the actions of the principals OFM and IOR and their 18 respective roles in the physical deposit of the Treasury.

19 Finally, IOR disputes the post deposit conversion of the Ustasha Treasury by IOR. But 20 again numerous details are provided by plaintiffs at the 4AC’s ¶¶35, 37, 39, 146-8, 150 n4, 155,
21 157, 158, 160, 163, 165, 166, including names, approximate time frames, accounts, locations, 22 and recipients. Alperin does not allege any conspiracy, as in Twombly. The case is based on the 23 Eizenstat Report findings. The Ustasha are a historic fact, genocide occurred, and funds were 24 laundered post war by defendants ~ the res in Alperin is not speculative, it existed and may still 25 exist. Plaintiffs therefore request the Court deny IOR’s motion to dismiss.
